U. P. Bureau Endorses Nationwide Service

Iron Mountain, Oct. 14 (Special)—The Upper Peninsula Development bureau at its 39th annual meeting here yesterday wholeheartedly endorsed "activities of Nationwide Airlines, Inc." and requested the Civil Aeronautics Board to issue an immediate notice of hearing and pre-hearing conference of Nationwide's application for a franchise permitting it to provide air mail and passenger service to the U. P.

The proposed Nationwide route would tie Houghton, Marquette, Iron Mountain, Escanaba, Menominee, Green Bay, Wis., Grand Rapids, Lansing and Detroit in that order and reverse on the return trip.

"Nationwide Airlines has given far-round passenger transportation between the Lower Peninsula and Upper Peninsula," the Bureau said in its resolution, "and the Michigan department of aeronautics, knowing the high caliber of Nationwide's service, has recommended to the Civil Aeronautics Board prompt and favorable consideration and action to the application of Nationwide."

No reference was made to Wisconsin Central in the bureau's resolution. Wisconsin Central is an airline that has for more than two years had a franchise to serve the Upper Peninsula but has not yet provided such service.

The air service controversy got quite heated at the bureau meeting. The U. P. Air Transportation committee and numerous cities and counties in the U. P. have asked CAB to continue suspension of Wisconsin Central's "service" in the U. P. and to conduct a hearing without delay on Nationwide's application.

The committee has expressed itself repeatedly as having lost faith in Wisconsin Central which, it was reported, has resorted to numerous dodges to delay providing U. P. service, namely condition of airports and lack of finances.

Higgins Talks
Wisconsin Central, although certified some time ago to serve Ironwood, Houghton-Hancock, Escanaba, Iron Mountain, Menominee and Marquette, announced during the last few days that it is prepared to begin service to the above-named communities if certain installations were effected, at several landing-fields, to meet requirements of the Civil Aeronautics Administration for certified airlines.

Francis M. Higgins, president of Wisconsin Central, started the heated discussion when—although not scheduled on the dinner program—he asked permission to speak. James Beckman, of Marquette, Bureau president, gave Higgins the nod. Higgins began: "We are authorized to serve six Upper Peninsula cities. In 1947 the CAB authorized our company to serve Ironwood, Houghton-Hancock, Escanaba, Iron Mountain and Menominee. The stipulation was that a 'reasonable number' of our airports would have to be completed before service could begin.

Outlined Services
Higgins briefly outlined the services and installations which must be completed before Wisconsin Central can begin operating in the U. P. At Ironwood, he said, there is need for an administrative building, and telephone and teletype lines to the airport; at Houghton, a temporary administrative building, and also telephone and teletype lines; Marquette, several miles of power lines and telephone and teletype; Escanaba, lack of specific safety requirements. Higgins said he had no recent information from the CAA about Menominee, but was in the process of getting it.

As to Iron Mountain, Higgins said information he had obtained from the CAA indicated the Ford airport, operated by the Fontana School of Aeronautics, did not meet safety requirements of the air-carrier division of the CAA for scheduled operations. "I believe," he said, "it has something to do with improper spacing of the lights adjoining the landing strip."

Draws Fire

This drew fire from Mario Fontana, operator at the Ford airport, who brought out that the CAA had already approved the field, in a formal public ceremony. "I can't understand," he said, "why we do not meet safety requirements." He queried Higgins, directly, and the airlines president said he had his information directly from CAA.

This morning Fontana and his aides, at the airport, ran a tape-line on the lights and confirmed that they are 120 feet apart, as required by CAA.

This also, confirms approval by the CAA of the Ford Airport, for service by Wisconsin Central.

Higgins said that at least four of the six Upper Michigan communities must meet CAA requirements before his company can begin service. "We are ready to start at once," he said, "and are now signing leases with several of the Upper Michigan airports pending the required improvements." Leases have already been signed with Ironwood, Houghton-Hancock and Marquette, and can also be signed at any time, with Dickinson county, which owns the land on which the Ford airport is situated, Higgins added.

"Direct Service"

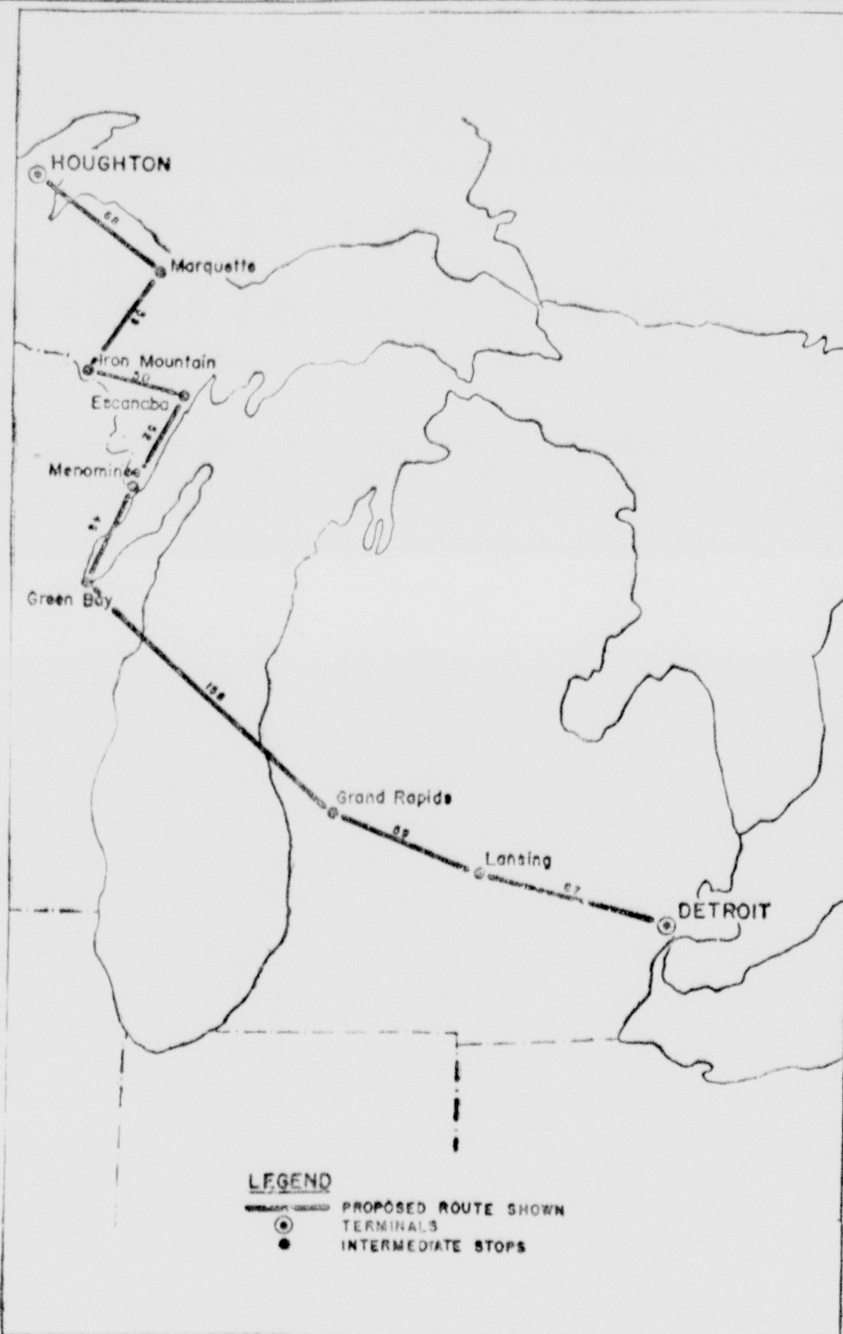

Higgins then brought out that his company is offering "direct service" from upper Michigan to Milwaukee, Chicago, Minneapolis and Duluth. He referred to the recent application of Nationwide Airlines to expand its feeder-service from upper Michigan to Green Bay, and thence to Grand Rapids, Lansing and Detroit, connecting with other scheduled airlines at Green Bay for various routes destinations.

The Wisconsin Central president urged that, in this move, nothing be done to jeopardize the direct service to Milwaukee, Chicago and Minneapolis.

Higgins then explained, in considerable detail, why Wisconsin Central had not started service to the U. P. heretofore. He indicated that shortage of financing had much to do with it, and mentioned an item of $530,000 which he said was owing Wisconsin Central by the government for air-mail service, unpaid because the "Post Office department was broke." "In fact," he continued, "as recently as last Thursday—just a week ago—congress passed a third deficiency appropriation, and we expect to get our money perhaps within the next few days."

Challenges Statement
"In recent weeks," Higgins began—and here's where he ran into trouble—"a petition has been presented to the CAB to take away from the U. P. this direct air-line connection to Chicago, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Duluth." He went on to indicate that the petition had "originated" with the Michigan state aeronautics commission, and then continued with more reasons why this action should not be taken.

Immediately after he had concluded, John P. McElroy, fiery member of the Michigan state aeronautics commission, flatly challenged Higgins' statement about the origin of the petition, and said, instead, that it was a petition in which various Upper Peninsula and state agencies had joined—including the state aeronautics commission, the state administrative board, the newly-organized Upper Peninsula Aero-aeronautics committee (headed by Bob Murphy, of Menominee), the Michigan state legislature, Governor G. Mennen Williams, the attorney general of Michigan, various chambers of commerce and many other departments and groups.

The airline will add Grand Rapids and Green Bay to its present schedule which will give connections with other air mail lines at Detroit, Grand Rapids and Green Bay.

McElroy charged Higgins with a "misstatement" as to the Michigan aeronautics commission in this respect. He also referred to the Wisconsin Central situation as a "mythical service" to the Upper Peninsula—a service which Wisconsin Central is certified and pledged to give "but has failed to do so."

For Service

"We are for Michigan, and for service in Michigan for Michigan," McElroy said. He commended Nationwide Airlines for the service it is now maintaining between Detroit and Houghton and concluded with a sharp reminder to Higgins that Wisconsin Central's failure to come through on its commitment to Upper Michigan has brought much criticism and adverse comment.

Following the meeting, various of the delegates—including Fontana and McElroy, both members of the Michigan state board of aeronautics; Col. Maitland, state

Red Cross Holds Annual Meeting

New Members Of Board Elected

The annual meeting of the Delta County Chapter of the American Red Cross was held Wednesday evening in the Chapter Headquarters at 605 Ludington street. The chapter chairman, Loren Jenkins, presided over the meeting. There were 23 members present.

Mr. Jenkins read a communication from National Headquarters to the effect that President Truman has appointed Gen. Geo. C. Marshall to succeed Mr. Basil O'Connor as president of the American National Red Cross. The annual report was presented to the membership and was approved by a vote of the membership.

Ten members were elected to the board of directors. The new board members elected to serve terms of three years to expire in 1952 were as follows: Harry Gruber, Gust Asp, Clarence E. Moore, John A. Lemmer, Escanaba; George Weingartner, Rock; George W. Brown, Wells; Dr. Vernon Johnson, Escanaba; James Jones, Gladstone; Dr. Norman L. Lindquist, Escanaba, and Mrs. J. R. VanArman, Gladstone.

After the business meeting Howard McGee of National Area Headquarters in St. Louis gave a short talk and then presented a motion picture entitled "It Can Be You," a film depicting the various volunteer services of the Red Cross. After the motion picture refreshments were served by Mrs. N. H. Witham, the executive secretary, assisted by Miss Delight Mashek, office secretary, Mrs. M. Edwards, Mrs. M. Alperwitz, Mrs. R. Perrin and Mrs. Fred Earle of

Auto Dealers Hold Meeting In Escanaba

About 100 persons attended the Upper Peninsula district meeting of the Michigan Automobile Dealers association at the House of Ludington yesterday.

Main purpose of the conference was to familiarize the car dealers with the recent changes in the state motor vehicle codes and sales tax regulations. Another aim was to bring about a closer understanding between state officials and car dealers.

Frank W. Herriek, executive secretary of the MADA; Gilbert Haly, assistant secretary; Harold Bradshaw, deputy secretary of the state; Henry Schroeder, field supervisor of the Michigan department of revenue, and Floyd Brown, vice president of the MADA were the guest speakers at the dinner. Bruce Brackett, vice president of the upper peninsula district of the MADA, was chairman of the meeting.

Use Straits Causeway Now and Plan Bridge, Gov. Williams Urges

Michigan's position as a water-bound state separated in two peninsulas is a natural blessing—and a challenge.

The challenge, said Gov. G. Mennen Williams to yesterday's meeting of the U. P. Development Bureau at Iron Mountain, is to bring those two peninsulas together by better communications and better understanding.

"A large part of our Upper Peninsula has been encouraged, indeed I might say forced, to turn its face to Madison, Milwaukee and Chicago, rather than to Lansing, Grand Rapids and Detroit. Even in such matters as communications, we have allowed the people of our two peninsulas to lose touch with each other, to the disruption of that unity which makes a state prosperous and its people happy," the governor said.

Use the Causeway
To the end that a closer bond might be achieved between the peninsulas, a state-wide committee—the Inter-Peninsula Communications Commission—is now studying the problem with the assistance of other groups such as the Development Bureau, the governor continued.

"On the question of communications, our primary problem is the Straits of Mackinac. This is by no means the whole problem, and I have instructed the Inter-Peninsula Communications Commission to deal with other questions of communication and transportation across Lake Michigan to Menominee, Escanaba, Manistique and other points. But if we could solve the problem of getting traffic quickly across the four miles of water from Mackinaw City to St. Ignace, we would have taken a great forward step," Gov. Williams said.

"The Commission has already arrived at one conclusion which I heartily endorse—that the causeway extending south from St. Ignace should be put to use. This would be, admittedly, only an interim solution. But it will reduce the traffic jam at the Straits which discourages so many persons from visiting the Upper Peninsula.

Cut Travel Time
"By running the State ferries from the Mackinaw City dock to the end of the causeway, the voyage can be cut approximately in half—from more than eight miles to about four miles.

"Inspection of the causeway indicates that it has withstood the effects of several winter seasons. The commission reports that the causeway has not deteriorated, nor has any appreciable displacement been discovered.

"The commission has concluded that the causeway is structurally sound and can be used as the northern ferry terminal.

"Earlier surveys of traffic across the Straits predicted a volume of approximately 470,000 vehicles by 1960. However, this figure was actually surpassed in 1947, so that we are now 13 years late in planned construction. An examination of traffic studies reveals that each year since the war traffic has increased. Accordingly, it would appear that immediate action is warranted.

Plan Is Reasonable
"The Commission's studies also indicate that 85 per cent of total ferry traffic is carried in the period from May through November. With the peak load thus occurring in months when fair weather is prevalent, it would not be necessary to use the causeway terminal the year around. In the bad weather months it would be perfectly feasible to use the present longer ferry route. Such seasonal use of the causeway would eliminate the need for more expensive all-weather construction in the docking facilities.

"The Commission believes that traffic could be stepped up at least 35 per cent by use of the causeway. With sailings each half hour in each direction, a total of 9,000 vehicles could be accommodated as compared with a peak day of about 6,000 vehicles this year. This estimate of increased operation is based on use of the four ferries presently operated. If the railroad car ferry were pressed into use, an even greater capacity would, of course, result.

"It seems to me that this is an eminently reasonable plan: to utilize the causeway, build fair-weather dock facilities at its tip, and operate the ferries on the short route when traffic volume demands it, during the fair-weather months.

Ready by 1950?
"It is estimated that the dock could be constructed at the end of the causeway and facility put in operation sometime next summer if work were commenced at once. So, also, if construction were ordered immediately, the connection with U. S. 2 and parking lot facilities could be effected to coincide with completion of the docks.

"All this could be done, I am told, at a cost of about $2,000,000, or less than half the cost of the new ferry boat which has been recommended by the highway department.

"Now what about a bridge? As you all know, the causeway at St. Ignace was originally constructed as a first step in the building of a bridge. In 1940, a study of the bridge question was completed by an engineering firm generally recognized as experts in bridge design. Their report indicated that a bridge was feasible. They recommended the causeway, first as a temporary terminal for ferry traffic, and ultimately as the northern approach to a bridge span. That is how the causeway came to be built in 1942.

Bridge Is Feasible
"The 1940 survey, together with all earlier studies of the Straits of Mackinac problem, have been turned over to the commission. I am sure the commission will come up with a concrete recommendation upon which we can act with confidence.

"I do not want to anticipate that recommendation. But it seems clear to me that there are no insurmountable natural obstacles to a Straits bridge.

"The main obstacle to a bridge are not natural but economic and political. A way must be found to pay for a bridge if we are going to consider it. And a way must be found to establish and adhere to a consistent policy. We cannot afford to change our minds every couple of years, as we did on the million-dollar causeway which now stands idle; or as we did on the beautiful State dock at St. Ignace which was rendered useless when we adopted end-loading ferries.

Biggest In World
"Like everything else in Michigan, this problem of uniting our two peninsulas, is not a little problem. It is big. It is big as our lakes are vast, and our forests wide. A bridge across the Straits of Mackinac would be the biggest bridge in the world.

"But let us remind you, as we tackle this whole gigantic problem, that we are a mighty people. This is the land of Paul Bunyan. We are the sons and daughters of men and women who cleared the world's mightiest forests, dug the iron from the vitals of the earth, tamed the violence of our unpredictable waters, and built on these peninsulas, the greatest industrial civilization the world has ever seen.

"Since the first explorers' canoes penetrated into these waterways, geographical difficulties have been nothing but a challenge to be overcome. We have never been a people to be frightened by such a prospect as the world's biggest bridge. We have never been susceptible to defeat by a few miles of blue water.

"With united effort, vision and faith in the future of both our peninsulas, we shall solve this problem. Michigan must be one commonwealth, physically, spiritually, and culturally. To this end we shall devote all our efforts."

Faces Trial For Killing Doe

Gladstone — Lyle Healy, 115 North Third street, Manistique, was arraigned before Justice O. C. Estenson, today on a charge of killing a doe during the closed season on firearms.

He pleaded not guilty and when unable to furnish the $200 bond, was remanded to the county jail to await trial which was set for October 24.

Healy was arrested north of Stevens Lake by Conservation officers Hugh Fisher of Garden and Allan Tweedy of Escanaba.

The highest point in the Western Hemisphere is Mount Aconcagua in Argentina—22,834 feet above sea level.

Escanaba Wins Recognition

Industrial Efforts Lauded By Weeks

Escanaba was cited, in a talk by Don Weeks of the Michigan Economic Development department, as a shining example of a community that has done an outstanding job of industrial promotion.

Weeks, chief of the industrial development division of the state, spoke at the luncheon meeting of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau in Iron Mountain yesterday.

"Sound industrial development in the Upper Peninsula must be the ambition of every civic-minded citizen in the Peninsula and it must be the day-to-day job of many people in many communities," Weeks declared. "It isn't easy. It takes cooperation in place of competition. It takes a lot of working together."

Weeks said that a community, first of all, must have a stable organization like a Chamber of Commerce or some similar group to launch an effective industrial expansion program. A survey of a community's resources and advantages must be made and the information available in printed form.

Weeks also advised communities to compile lists of former residents who might serve as contacts to induce industries to locate in their home towns. Local business making trips to Chicago and other industrial centers could help by calling on heads of companies.

He also urged that tourists be contacted in a search for manufacturers who are vacationing now but might someday come to the Upper Peninsula to both vacation and work. A close working acquaintance should be main-

Gladstone Voters Appose Pensions

THE results of the special election in Gladstone Tuesday in which voters of that city approved a city pension system by a wide margin refutes the argument of firemen and police associations of Michigan that they must look to the state legislature for adjustment of their grievances.

Gladstone voters approved the city pension system by a vote of 489 to 186. They did so in recognition of the justification of the city employees' request for a pension system. City employees are not covered by social security and the municipal workers simply were asking for benefits that are already available to a majority of the workers of the country. It was a reasonable request and the voters of Gladstone recognized it as such.

Firemen and police organizations of the state, however, have regularly taken their problems to the legislature, seeking such things as minimum pay standards, restrictions on working time, etc. The tendency has been to by-pass the local communities which are most directly concerned with such problems.

The election results in Gladstone Tuesday have been duplicated many times in other communities of the state. The local communities are concerned with the welfare of the municipal employees. The record shows conclusively that local citizens appraise the requests of public servants fairly.

Community Fund Campaign Opens

THE Delta County Community Fund's annual solicitation campaign gets under way tomorrow morning. In the next two weeks every wage earner in the county will be contacted at his place of employment and asked to make a contribution to the Community Fund. It is taken for granted that few will refuse.

How much should each wage earner contribute? Well, that is a question that everyone must answer for himself. If he realizes that he is contributing not to one special agency, but to six, the contribution will not be a negligible one. A dollar, for instance, doesn't go far when it is divided between six agencies, each of them important to the well-being of the county.

The six agencies are the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Campfire Girls, Salvation Army, Cod Liver Oil Fund and the Michigan Children's Aid. The record of service of each of these agencies is outstanding. Each is doing a good job of important public service. The Community Fund is simply a one-shot drive to secure sufficient operating funds to keep these agencies going. If the Community Fund fails, the agencies individually would have no choice except to sponsor separate fund raising drives of their own.

The goal for the entire campaign is $17,000, a comparatively small amount of money to be raised on a county-wide basis for such an important program. If everyone cooperates, the money can be obtained easily within the two weeks period established for the fund-raising drive.

We cannot let these agencies down by failing to subscribe the amount of money necessary to meet their budgets. When the solicitors call upon you, give as generously as you can.

Housewives Are Winning The Fight

THE tuna packers of San Diego and the Pacific coast are being squeezed between a great canned tuna surplus and an army of striking housewives who simply will not buy the stuff at present prices.

Time was when fish fanciers looked upon tuna as a sort of outcast fish, in the same class that suckers are with many Michigan people today. Then someone discovered that tuna fish can be used as the base for delicious salads, and a great industry sprang up on the coast. Thousands of Portuguese fishermen came from southwestern Europe and settled along the San Diego shore line with their fishing equipment. Today many of them are millionaires, and they are canning and packing as well as seining tuna, which run in immense schools at seasonal intervals.

But Mrs. America has set her foot down solidly on present tuna prices. White meat tuna is now selling in the country's grocery stores, when it sells, for around 41 cents per seven-ounce can, and it has been higher. The light meat variety, fillet style, retails for 29 to 39 cents, against about 42 cents last spring. Mom says it's just too high for any use, so let's get along without it.

Two years ago she wanted nothing but fancy tuna. Now she buys it sparingly grated, because it's about a nickel a can cheaper that way. She would buy a lot of white tuna at 29 or even 30 cents a can, but she is backing away from higher prices. Packers have contracted with fishing crews for a price of $310 a ton for the fish, delivered at the canneries until next January. More than a million cases of the canned fish are stacked away in canners' warehouses, or three times the stocks of a year ago.

So, as matters go now, grocers around the country are buying only a two weeks' supply at a time. In the meantime the year's pack may total six million cases, but higher wages and other costs are putting packers and fishing vessel operators in the red. It is thought that an extensive advertising campaign may move much of the surplus into use channels. If it doesn't, someone will take a swell loss because the meal purveyors of America just don't feel like buying tuna at present prices.

Marquette Favors Manager System

AN advisory vote in Marquette this week showed favorable sentiment of the electors to submit a new city manager charter to the people. This proposal won out over alternative plans to rescind the city manager system or retain the present manager setup.

Marquette's present governmental system is about half city manager plan, half commission plan. The city employs a full time city manager but does not have a charter that establishes the authority of the manager. As a result there has been more than the usual amount of local power politics in Marquette. The voters were asked to express their opinions on what kind of a governmental system they prefer in Marquette and they indicated a desire to go the full way towards a city manager form.

As a result it is anticipated that a new charter will be drawn and submitted to the voters, providing for a full length manager plan.

In connection with that development, the voters also backed a charter amendment to reduce the terms of city commissioners from five years to two years.

The manager system permits the establishment of municipal government on a level of efficiency that is not possible under the commission plan. Marquette voters recognized that in voting as they did in the advisory election this week.

PAPER COMPANY'S VISION (Milwaukee Journal)

Trees are a lot of things, from poetic inspiration to "sponges" for soaking up water to present soil erosion.

Increasingly, trees are a "crop." That's a pretty obvious thing these days, when most people have been educated to the fact that trees can't be mowed down and sent to the mill in the old "strip the land" policy of the early timber barons. If we are to have timber to use 25 to 50 years from now we will have to practice selective cutting, widespread replanting and crop management.

Yet, in spite of widespread acceptance of the need for a scientific "crop" approach to trees, there has not been enough action so far to keep new growth on a par with timber harvests. We are still wasting.

This makes all the more impressive the anniversary that the Nekoosa-Edwards Paper Co. celebrated the other day. Twenty-five years ago Nepco had the vision to realize that if it wanted to stay in the business of cutting trees it would have to plant some. Nature couldn't compete with man. For the timber industry it was a radical decision.

Nepco started planting, and has been at it for 25 years. Today the company has 110,000 acres of timber "cropland" in Wisconsin. The land is providing the company with profitable harvests for paper manufacturing, the residents of Wisconsin with a beautiful section of northland and the state with an economic and conservation asset.

Nepco's example led other timber cutting firms to plant trees, too, until today there are 500,000 acres of industrial forests in Wisconsin. That's a sizable chunk of the 4,000,000 acres of man made forest lands in the state, most of them county, state and federal.

It means for Wisconsin, in the words of John E. Alexander, president of Nepco, "flood abatement, better farm lands and wild life with an economic balance."

We wish Nepco's forests "happy birthday" and many more trees to come.

HOWLERS RECENTLY NOTED

Newspaper headline: "Shades of Judge Roy Bean!" It is an extremely common error to invoke the "shades" of some long departed person. But a moment's reflection will show that the plural "shades" is nonsense, since a shade is the departed spirit of a deceased person.

In humorous invocations "shades" is proper in speaking of more than one deceased person, as, "Shades of my ancestors!" The headline should have read: Shade of Judge Roy Bean!

From a Michigan obituary page: "Burial will be in Vernon, and a short pre-nuptial service will be held there at 1:30 P. M." It is obvious that the writer of that howler had no idea at all what the word nuptial means. The word is from the French, from the Latin nuptialis, "marriage, wedding." In English, nuptial, or nuptials, means "marriage ceremony, wedding." The word certainly has no conceivable connection

Admirals And Flyers Scrap

BY DOUGLAS LARSEN

Washington. (NEA)—There's no question that Capt. John G. Crommelin is playing the role of hero and martyr as far as all naval aviators are concerned.

But there is no such certainty that all the navy's "mud-hookers" think so. In fact there is some evidence of a small revolt among them. A "mud-hooker" is the somewhat disdainful name which all navy fliers use for anyone in the non-flying branches of the service. Actually, it's a sort of revolt within a revolt.

So far the naval aviators have done practically all of the feuding with the air force and with the department of defense officials. Crommelin is one of the most ardent defenders of naval aviation of them all.

Up until now the mud-hookers have been more or less content to go along with the argument of the fly-boys. A big fraction of the surface fleet exists to support the air arm. To that extent mud-hookers and fliers have pretty mutual interests.

But now many of the strictly seagoing admirals and senior officers are beginning to drag their feet in the fight. They don't all approve of the tactics which have been used by the aviators in getting their side of the fight laid before congress and the people.

The navy's tradition of strict adherence to the orders of superior officers appears to be more deeply ingrained in the surface and submarine boys than it is in the newer aviation branch of the navy. The more conservative old line officers are shocked at such tactics as Crommelin has used. None of them will speak out and openly criticize him. But privately they admit that the dispute has reached a stage where the whole navy might be more seriously injured than its air arm can be helped.

NO. 1 MUD-HOOKER'S PLIGHT

Adm. Louis Denfeld, chief of naval operations, also happens to be the navy's No. 1 mud-hooker. He's primarily a submariner and battleship man. For that reason his spot is twice as hot. He's caught between the whole navy and Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson's office on the one hand, and between the fliers and the mud-hookers inside the navy on the other.

Denfeld's apparent obedience to Johnson on the key issues in the dispute, such as the order for the cancellation of the giant carrier by the joint chiefs of staff which was signed by Denfeld, and the big recent personnel cut which hit naval aviation hardest, has weakened Denfeld's hand in trying to control his fliers. Many naval aviators have long been muttering that Denfeld has deserted their cause. Although many of the fliers will also argue that Denfeld hasn't represented the navy as aggressively as he might on the joint chiefs of staff, most of the mud-hookers take his side on this issue.

It rangles a lot of the non-fliers how the aviators have tended to steal the show in the navy during and since the war. And they point out that the military situation today tends to minimize the relative importance of aviation in the navy. Russia is the only possible enemy and she has no aircraft carriers or much of a surface fleet, as far as the best intelligence reports indicate. So there is no imminent threat of a seaborne attack on the U. S. in case of war.

SET A SUB TO CATCH A SUB

Russia's big naval threat is under the water with its powerful fleet of German-type submarines. It is pointed out that the most effective weapon against an enemy sub is another sub. That's one of the main reasons why the submarine branch of the navy has been the only one to have its appropriations consistently increased since the war, while the other branches have taken cuts.

Of course, the real reason for most of the bitterness in the navy is the cancellation of the big carrier. That was to have put it in the thick of offensive atomic bomb warfare. This is proved by the statement which Adm. Arthur W. Radford, the navy's No. 1 flier, was finally able to make in an open committee of congress.

He devoted his entire appearance to a condemnation of the B-36 bomber, calling it "useless as a defensive weapon and inadequate as an offensive weapon." It was the success which the air force claimed for the performance of the B-36 which ultimately led to the cancellation of the big carrier. Apparently Radford feels that if he can convince congress that the B-36 isn't capable of delivering A-bombs to Russia, there is still a chance that the big carrier might yet get built.

But the mud-hookers are beginning to wonder if the big carrier is worth all the trouble.

with a deceased person or a burial service.

From a popular column: "Incognito means 'wearing a disguise.'" Not so. Incognito, an Italian loan word, is from the Latin incognitus, "not known." In both Italian and English incognito means, "with one's identity concealed, usually by means of an assumed or fictitious name," as, to travel incognito.

Incidentally, incognito is widely mispronounced "IN-kog-NEE-tuh." The correct pronunciation is in-KOG-ni-toe.

From an Indiana news story: "He suffered a heart attack and lied on the ground for 45 minutes." This states that the stricken man was a liar, for "lied" is the past tense of the verb to lie (tell a falsehood) and it has no connection with the verb to lie (to recline, to become prostrate). The story should have read: He lay on the ground. . .

From a magazine story: "She sat the vase on a table." No, decidedly. If she placed a vase on a table, the proper verb is "set," as: She set the vase. . .

Lie-lay and sit-set are real troublemakers in English. Mr. Colby has prepared an especially helpful leaflet, C-11, which explains the verbs in clear, non-technical language. A simple key guides you instantly to the correct usage. For a copy, send 5c in coin, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to him, care of Escanaba Daily Press, P. O. Is That a Promise?

Good Evening

By Clint Dunathan

COUNTY-WIDE—Yesterday we discussed some aspects of the Delta county board of supervisors and its difficulty in arriving at a county-wide approach to county-wide problems.

Today we propose to talk about those problems and, to the best of our ability, show that they are county-wide, some opinion to the contrary.

What is a county-wide program?

Law enforcement, roads, health, welfare, and the keeping of public records are county-wide programs.

They fall into this category because they serve the interests of all of our people, whether the people reside in a township with a population of 500 or a city with a population of 15,000.

DRAWING LINES—Delta county (or any county) is not made up of separate units with separate interests.

Geographical lines and governmental boundaries do not and cannot divide the people of a county. The interests of all the people, combined into the larger unit, are more important than those of the individual units.

The division that occurs in the minds of people. Distrust between cities and townships is not caused by boundary lines separating governmental units. It is the result of misunderstanding and selfishness.

Delta county is a unit of government, serving all of our people. Its strength and progress depend upon the unity of the people, and their representatives on the county board.

ON THE SIDE—Strangely enough, there is little indication (outside of county board meetings) of rivalry or jealousy between the townships and cities of Delta county.

Our people work together on county-wide programs outside of county government.

Shining example is the work of the Delta county planning committee—a misnomer if there ever was one. For the committee is long on action as well as planning.

That committee is bringing about an extension of rural telephone service in Delta county; it has laid the groundwork for a better understanding of the need for certain reforms in county government; and is nearing fulfillment of a program to add to public access sites along the water-frontage in the county.

The committee, incidentally, is composed of men from the townships and the cities. They do not bicker. They do establish goals of county-wide benefit and work toward them.

FOR AGRICULTURE—Some of the township supervisors who may have left the recent county board meeting feeling that the cities are out to get the best of the townships might well consider evidence to the contrary.

In particular evidence includes the helpful interest of city folks in the agricultural economy of the county.

The Escanaba Potato Booster association is a case in point. The association was inspired by the idea of cooperation helpfulness and is now being carried on successfully into its ninth consecutive year. A Dairy Booster association was also started and can be expected to receive the support of city business men and civic leaders.

The Escanaba Farm Market is an institution of long standing and its construction and maintenance is paid for by city dollars. That it competes with some of the other local food markets has no effect on its continued success.

BOTH WAYS—Before we go too far, let's assure the township folks that in Escanaba there is no apparent feeling of doing something out of charity. The work on the county planning committee, the booster contests, the farm market are projects designed to benefit both the urban and rural residents. It works both ways. The benefits are to both the city and township folks—and to the county as a whole. The benefits are mutual, and the feeling is, too.

THE GROWING IDEA—This is Delta county. The unity its people express should be carried through to the discussions of the supervisors in meeting on county problems.

There is the growing idea of county-wide progress that must be followed through if success is to be achieved on an area basis. The supervisors, to the last man, should get in step with the desire of the people for united and better county government.

It can be achieved only by understanding, cooperation, and effort toward goals that benefit Delta county—and its two cities, 14 townships, and one incorporated village.

Answering Mrs. I. S. Q.

Dear Editor: This has reference to Mrs. I. S. Q.'s communication in Tuesdays, Oct. 11 issue.

Why are so many people like this woman against the G. I. bill? I am a vet myself of five major campaigns, including the landings in Normandy. While the fighting was going on the home front was pretty quiet, and now they have a lot to say. We gave our all to preserve our country. We made our sacrifices, more than the average person would ever realize, and after we return from the battle fields the squaking begins, and by whom. Mrs. I. S. Q. did you have a son that served on foreign soil? Never mind I can answer that one.

And speaking of stealing who are you to judge the ex-service-men and what do you call stealing? You never see the vets rapping anyone through any newspapers. What are we supposed to be? At least we can't be called a bunch of 4-F's.

It's a shame that people create jealousy among themselves. If everyone would stay on their own side of the fence and try to mind their own business we would probably get along much better.

Thank you,

"A Veteran."
P. S.—I never had training under the G. I. bill.

Pesty Neighbors

Dear Editor: A number of boys in my neighborhood are a pest in this vicinity. They are forever playing football in everybody else yards when the owners are away. They are on a newly made lawn at the Salvation Army, also, an improved lawn on my lot. Monday night they broke two windows in my garage; that is five windows they have broken on me in the last two months. Their parents better warn them that some day they will be caught in the act and their dads will be handed a bill for the full amount of the damage.

The police force has told them many times to play in their own yards, but it is impossible to keep them out of our yards.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington.—Only a few insiders know it, but President Truman has turned sour against his former secretary of agriculture,

Clinton Anderson. In fact, the other day the president hurled his favorite insult against Anderson, now serving in the senate from New Mexico. He called him a "big-interest man."

What prompted this bitter epithet was Anderson's fight against flat, 90 per cent farm supports.

The president had long suspected that Anderson was quietly knitting the Brannan farm plan, but the clincher came when Anderson urged a "compromise" 75 to 90 per cent, flexible price-support scale.

Anderson had spread the impression that the president was backing his compromise. Puzzled, a congressional visitor put the questions warily to Truman.

"In the senate," he said, "Elmer Thomas (of Oklahoma) quoted you as being for 90 per cent parity, while Dick Russell (of Georgia) said he understood you were against 90 per cent."

"I don't know how, Dick got that idea," Truman broke in.

"Senator Anderson seems to have taken command," added the congressman. "Personally I don't care for Anderson's philosophy."

"Well, Clint Anderson is a big-interest man," declared the president firmly.

"As between Anderson's bill and straight 90 per cent parity," Truman continued, "I naturally favor 90 per cent because we campaigned on that basis."

The president added that, of all the farm bills that had come out, he liked Congressman Stephen Pace's the best, because the Georgia congressman had included the production payment feature of the Brannan plan.

Referring again to Anderson, the congressional visitor pointed out that big-interest men who pose as liberals are much more dangerous than out-and-out reactionaries.

"There is no question about that," agreed the president emphatically.

Note—Secretary of Agriculture Charlie Brannan has been fretful over Anderson's opposition, but hasn't raised his voice against his former boss—because Charlie owes his job to him.

JOHN L. LEWIS ROARS

John L. Lewis was at his roaring best when the coal operators met with Federal Mediation Chief Cy Ching on their first try to settle the coal strike. While the meeting got nowhere, it certainly did, not lack sound effects.

The northern operators—led by Harry Moses, president of U. S. Steel's H. C. Frick company, and George Love, of the Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal company—suggested that negotiations be based on Lewis's last contract, which expired June 30. The southern mine owners, led by Joseph Moody, didn't want to go this far, contending there should first be reforms in the welfare fund.

Turning a baleful glare on Moses, Love and Moody, he added wrathily that he might have known he would be wasting his time endeavoring to deal with "these economic puppets of the United States Steel company and the Cleveland Trust company."

The operator trio chuckled. They had been called worse names than this by the eloquent miners' boss.

CAPTIVE MINES

"Why, you have no authority to speak for your bosses in U. S. Steel or the Cleveland Trust company," Lewis went on, referring to the Cleveland bank's interest in Pittsburgh Consolidation Coal and U. S. Steel's ownership of the H. C. Frick Co. "So, why do you waste my time? If it was a question of matching your authority in the United Mine Workers, I would send five of my local union presidents to deal across the table with you."

The operators reminded Lewis that he shouldn't accuse them of making no "offer" to settle the strike, since he had made no specific offer himself.

"I have labor to sell," replied Lewis, "It's up to the operators to bid for it."

CHING GETS WORDSLIDE

Mediator Ching diplomatically remarked that the coal strike could never be mediated and settled until both sides showed a more cooperative attitude. But this provoked another wordslide from Lewis.

"What do you mean by mediation?" he demanded. "Why don't you use some on the operators to make them stop their high-handed oppression of labor?"

"I have no authority to make either side in this dispute do anything," replied Ching. "All I can do is bring you together and help you settle your differences."

New Jenkins Home Open For Inspection Saturday, Sunday

NEW JENKINS HOME—The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Loren Jenkins on 12th avenue south will be open for public inspection Saturday afternoon and evening and Sunday afternoon and evening. The Jenkins family will move into the home next week.

The ranch-style house designed by Loren Jenkins, city engineer, and constructed in the 1100 block of Twelfth avenue south will be open for public inspection Saturday and Sunday, from one p. m. to nine p. m. each day. Mr. and Mrs. Jenkins will move into the new home next week.

The construction of the new home has been followed with considerable interest locally because the residence embodies a number of modern appurtenances. The house is 62 feet long, 30 feet wide in the center section and 36 feet in width at the two wings. The building has been erected on a double lot, 92 feet frontage on the avenue and 115 feet in depth. The outer walls are 14 inches in thickness, constructed of a cinder block core to which is attached ranch-style faced brick and concrete panels on the exterior. A furring strip on the inner walls, two inches of rock wool insulation, rock lath and plaster complete the wall structure. The hipped-roof is covered with asphalt shingles.

Remote Control for Garage
The house is basement-less, but it is cleverly designed to provide adequate space for storage. The house features radiant heating, with 1500 feet of copper tubing in the concrete floors, covered with four inches of concrete. The boiler is oil-fired and, of course, is thermostatically controlled. Separate valve controls are available for each room in the building. Water temperatures in the coils are never more than 130 degrees, even in coldest weather.

The boiler is installed in the garage, which is attached to and is a part of the house. One of the conveniences of the garage is a magnetic control apparatus for the sliding door. A coil located in the Jenkins' car flashes a magnetic impulse in the driveway, which starts the motor to open the garage door, making it unnecessary for the driver to leave the car.

The laundry room is 15 feet long and nine feet wide. It features a completely automatic electric washer, a clothes drier and ironer. A large capacity electric water heater and water softener also are located in the laundry, as well as a built-in fold-away ironing board. Both the laundry and the garage are finished in colored plaster, light green with yellow ceilings.

The kitchen is 10 by 13 feet, yellow walls with gray ceiling and green accessories. The kitchen is all-electric, including range, refrigerator, garbage disposal unit and a built-in exhaust fan over the range. Cabinets are of metal, finished in gray to harmonize with the color pattern of the room. The wall between the kitchen and dining room is constructed of glass block.

Large Picture Windows
The dining room is 10 by 13 feet and features an attractive picture window of Thermopane looking out over the patio and the garden in the rear of the house. The walls of the dining room are covered with a figured paper, with the ceilings painted off white. The room also features a built-in linen cabinet.

The living room is 14 by 20 feet and contains a fireplace of modern design and a large Thermopane picture window, 12 feet in width. Two of the living room walls are painted solid green, the

Horwood Cites Growth Of U. P. Agriculture

The growth of agriculture in the Upper Peninsula over a period of the past 20 years and its increasing economic importance to the area was described to the U. P. Development Bureau at its annual meeting Thursday at Iron Mountain by Russell E. Horwood, Chatham, Michigan State College extension supervisor.

"It is striking to note the tremendous change that has occurred in farm income in the Upper Peninsula since 1929," Horwood said, and presented information obtained from census figures and farm surveys.

"The income at that time was $14,000,000 in round numbers. In 1939 it had dropped to $9 million—largely due to price changes. In 1948 it reached approximately $36 million. This great increase, four fold, was due to a sharp advancement in prices and to the tremendous improvement in the size and efficiency of agricultural production. Many of you will want to study your own county changes, and possibly compare them to other counties. Some counties have had a much greater advancement of income than others. The basic reasons are important. They could logically form the basis of an important county study to evaluate the program over that period," Horwood said.

"There are six major sources of farm income for the area. They are dairy products which makes up $18,400,000 or 50.8 percent; farm crops $6,782,000 or 19.3 percent; livestock $5,436,000 or 14.5 percent (most of this is dairy livestock); farm forest products $2,777,000 or 7.8 percent; poultry and poultry products $2,018,000 or 5.6 percent; and horticulture $960,000 or 2.0 percent of the total. This gives you the relative importance of various projects on an area basis. The break-down on a county basis also warrants your careful consideration.

"Dairying is way out in front with approximately 50 percent of the total income. To this could be added most of the sale of livestock. This would add another 14.5 percent. You as an association should take real satisfaction in the overall increase in the importance of agriculture to the economy of the area. You recognized its potential value in the early days and backed its programs in many ways. You should pride yourself also in having selected the dairy enterprise to receive your greatest support," he continued.

"Field crops rank second in importance," Horwood said. The major part of the farm income from the sale of products in this project is from potatoes. This project is of outstanding importance to areas because of the cash income it provides and the additional labor required from off the farm. Further the very nature of the crop requires the best of cultural practices which has a carry over effect that influences favorably the livestock feed crops such as hay, pasture and cereal grains. Grains have been developed in some areas to the point they are now self-sufficient.

"The farm forest products also has developed tremendously. There is still opportunity for a great expansion," he said.

"Poultry and horticulture have grown in importance. They need further attention to develop them and adjust them to the needs of the tourist industry. Extension programs underway now should result in eggs and chickens in much greater quantity in July, August and September during the peak of the tourist season.

"The work which has been done in Houghton and Baraga counties with strawberries and raspberries should be greatly expanded. Farmers are shipping strawberries and could ship raspberries to Milwaukee and Chicago and place them on the market following the regular marketing season to the south," Horwood said.

"There are now more farms in the 50, 75, 100 and 200 acre class, indicating fewer farms with a larger total acreage and more crop land. For efficiency, larger farm units are desirable," Horwood said.

"The Michigan Department of Economic Development in a report dated January, 1949 stated 'In the fall of 1948, the Upper Peninsula had a labor force of approximately 95,000 out of its total population 292,000 persons. Of this labor force 85,000 were in non-agricultural occupations. Agriculture is not adding to the unemployment of the area. It is absorbing it to an extent and can absorb more as development progresses,' Horwood said.

"The income farms have received from off the farm has not been included in the farm income from the sale of products referred to above. This certainly added $5 million or more additional income to the farm," he added.

"What is the value that might be assigned to agriculture?" "At best it can only be an estimate," Horwood said. "Possibly it is twice the farm income from the sale of products. That would place it at 72 millions of dollars. Possibly it is a $100,000,000 dollar industry. We can, I am sure, agree that it is tremendous. It is destined to become larger in total and much larger in proportion to other industry. The world is short of food; the world population is growing. If we are to live in peace people must be fed. This area is destined to further devel-other two papered with a green and white striped wallpaper.

The entrance room is 8 by 9 feet and features black figured paper, trimmed with blue. A clothes storage closet, 6 by 7 feet, is off the entrance room, providing considerable space for clothes, travelling bags, foot lockers, etc. This room is rose colored.

The master bedroom in the front, on the east wing, is 12 by 15 feet with plum colored paper of floral design. Built-in cabinets with sliding doors are accessible from both the master bedroom and the bathroom.

The second bedroom is 10 by 15 feet, with French blue painted walls. The hall between the bedrooms and bathroom is papered with the same wallpaper design that is used in the entrance room. A built-in linen closet is located in the hall near the rear bedroom.

The bathroom is a triumph of achievement. The floor and side walls are tile, with coral predominating. Bathroom fixtures are coral colored. The bathtub and shower have sliding drapes and the tub is separated from the stool by a corrugated structural glass partition. A dressing table is built in, complete with large dressing mirror. The bathroom floor is in two levels, one for the stool and tub, the other for the lavatory and dressing table. Coral and chartreuse colors predominate in the bathroom. The bathroom windows are constructed of glass blocks.

All of the rooms are covered with heavy inlaid linoleum, except the living room and dining room which will be covered with carpeting from wall to wall, and, of course, the bathroom which has a tile floor.

Careful attention has been given to the electrical wiring system and provision has been made for 15 circuits, instead of only four which is the conventional arrangement. The house features two complete electrical distribution centers, with no-fuse circuit breakers. All floor plugs are controlled by switches which are on a different circuit than the ceiling lights. Recessed lighting is used in all rooms, except the entrance. Telephone plugs for a portable telephone are built in each bedroom, bath and kitchen. The main telephone will be located in the entrance room. Radio plugs for loud speakers connected to the main radio in the living room also have been built in the bedrooms, bathroom, and kitchen.

The ceilings throughout are seven feet, 10 inches high. There are steel railings in the front and rear entrances and the front also features a built-in flower box. The front porch is recessed and is covered with the main roof. The chimney has three stacks, one for the fireplace, another for furnace and a third as a ventilator for the attic and the exhaust fan in the kitchen. Roof eaves protrude two feet from the walls. Both the front and back grounds are being landscaped.

Latest Dairy Report Good

Dairy Industry Has Made Good Progress

Milk sold in Manistique is not only safe but is also of high grade, says Roy LaFave, county sanitarian, in calling to his semi monthly report of tests made of milk and dairy products.

There have been times in the past when the results of laboratory tests of local dairy products, were far from what they should be, LaFave stated, but there has been a constant improvement since last spring, and this week's report, he said, should be on a par with some of the best reports in the state.

The source of supply, LaFave states, is particularly noteworthy in this week's report. Samples of milk taken at the farms of people who supply local dairies showed plate and bacteria counts that were well within the state requirements. There were only two sources of supply that did not show up well in contrast with the other producers, but even these were well within the legal limit.

This satisfactory state of affairs, says the sanitarian, is due to the installation of milk coolers, improvement in equipment, careful attention to details that will insure cleanliness and in more satisfactory arrangement.

Coliform is practically absent in tests made at the source, but in one or two tests of milk at the processing plants, a trace has been found. This, says the sanitarian, is not anything in the nature of manure or foreign substances which may come under the classification of filth and the report shows that it has been practically eliminated.

Arrangements are being made to send tests from time to time to laboratories at Lansing where the test returns will not only show the bacterial count and the coliform count, but will specifically state the nature of these organisms and thus give a clue as to how these troubles may be eliminated.

Ted Gates and Mason Smith of Marquette, state dairy inspectors, were in the Manistique area this week. Both praised the high milk production standards that are prevailing here at present.

Edith Kalnbach Becomes Bride Of W. Belleville

Miss Edith Kalnbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kalnbach of McMillan, became the bride of Wallace Belleville of Naubinway, in a ceremony performed Saturday, October 8, at 11 a. m. in Our Lady of Lourdes church in Engadine, the Rev. Fr. Joseph Kichak officiating.

The bride, attended by Miss Iona Mary Vallier, was attired in a bronze satin dress styled with a ballerina skirt. She wore black accessories and a corsage of red roses. The bridesmaid wore an identical dress of rose satin with black accessories and pale yellow roses.

Leon King attended the bridegroom. The bride's mother wore a navy blue print with matching accessories and a corsage of white baby mums.

A wedding dinner for 65 guests was served following the ceremony at the Emmet Vallier home. Vases of chrysanthemums, carnations, baby mums and asters decorated the home. The table was centered with a tiered wedding cake.

The bride is a graduate of Ferris Institute, member of the Alpha Phi Beta sorority and has been employed as receptionist in Dr. Hanna's office in Newberry. The bridegroom is employed at Valher's General store in Naubinway.

Baby Contest Is Sponsored By VFW

A baby contest will be held in conjunction with the production "Laff It Off," which is being produced under the auspices of VFW Post 4420 and its Auxiliary and will be presented on Wednesday and Thursday, October 19 and 20, at the high school auditorium. Through this entertainment the sponsors hope to be able to materially reduce the indebtedness on their VFW cottage.

Children under six years of age are eligible in this contest which is being sponsored by local businessmen. The contest is now on and will continue until the night of the show.

Ed. Havlichek's Body Recovered From Lake Hubbard

The body of Edward Havlichek, 58, former resident of Manistique, was recovered about five o'clock Thursday afternoon from the waters of Lake Hubbard, southwest of Alpena.

Havlichek was drowned late Sunday afternoon when he was testing an outboard motor he had purchased that day in Manistique. Attempts to rescue the body were hampered by strong winds and high waves that made rescue work extremely difficult.

G. Leslie Bouschor, his brother-in-law, was at the scene when the body was brought in.

Funeral services will be held at Flint at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Stratosphere Globe Taken To Minneapolis By University Men

Representatives of the University of Minnesota physics department arrived in Manistique Wednesday evening and claimed the globe found that morning on the shore of Lake Michigan by Joe Chadanais. They were very much pleased over the finding of this strange object, but claimed that another globe larger than this one, is still to be found and promised a substantial reward to the finder.

The two globes, the university men stated, were attached to a parachute which was, in turn, attached to a balloon. Timing devices set off a mechanism which freed the parachute from the balloon. They were of the opinion that the parachute and the globes fell into Lake Michigan and have probably washed ashore in the area.

The men declined to disclose fully the nature of the experiment undertaken.

City Manager Plan Wins In Marquette

Marquette, Mich. (AP)—In spite of Marquette's stormy experience with city manager government, a ballot count showed voters in favor of retaining the city manager system.

A proposal to submit a new city manager charter to the people won out in an advisory vote Tuesday over proposals to rescind the manager system or to retain the present manager setup.

Voters also backed a charter amendment to reduce city commissioner terms from five years to two by a margin of more than three to one.

At Least 2nd Place At Stake In Great Lakes Tilt Saturday Between Gladstone, Ishpeming

Gopher-Buckeye Battle Is Big Ten's Big Game

Chicago, Oct. 14 (P)—There's gridiron fare with both an international and a straight conference flavor for Big Ten fans this weekend.

For a starter there is Purdue's meeting tonight with the Miami Hurricanes in the Orange Bowl in the Big Ten's first invasion of Florida. Tomorrow the Navy will repay a Wisconsin visit to Annapolis in 1945 when the Middies invaded Madison in quest of their third 1949 victory.

Michigan Set For Wildcats

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 14 (P)—Michigan's football team headed for Evanston, Ill., today to show the Northwestern Wildcats it still has plenty of steam even if no longer invincible.

The Wolverines left by train this morning. Coach Bennie Oosterbaan hoped to get in a brief drill before the day is over to get his squad into top shape for its first Big Ten game.

Later today the Michigan band was to begin its trip to Evanston. In spite of the 21 to 7 defeat at the hands of Army last week, the Wolverines rule heavy favorites to take Northwestern—apparently not so strong as the Wildcat team that became Rose Bowl champion last year.

Oosterbaan has made it known he'll stick by quarterback Johnny Ghindia, whose showing in the Army game evoked some criticism. Ghindia will get the starting call Saturday, but the rest of the Michigan lineup has not yet been made known.

Though Michigan's string of consecutive victories was snapped last weekend, the Ann Arbor boys have three other streaks to extend by winning Saturday.

They have won 13 games in a row in Western Conference play—the best ever boasted by a Big Ten team.

They haven't been beaten in their last ten meetings with Northwestern. And Michigan teams have not gone scoreless in their last 47 contests.

Simmons, Brucker Fired By The A's

Philadelphia, Oct. 14 (P)—The surprise firing of coaches Al Simmons and Earl Brucker by the Philadelphia Athletics has started baseball's hot stove league boiling earlier than usual.

The A's fans pondered yesterday's dismissal by the club's board of directors of the two men often highly praised by Connie Mack.

Were Simmons and Brucker let out to enhance the position of Earle Mack as manager when his 86-year-old father decides to step down?

On several occasions, Connie has said that when (and if) he decides to retire as manager that Earle will take over. In the last few years Earle has shared a good deal of the field responsibility with his father.

Nobody was more surprised than Simmons and Brucker over their dismissal.

"The coaches aren't to blame for some terrible mistakes that were made this year," Simmons said.

"If I had any idea such a change was going to be made I would deliberately have stayed for the World series so that I could have made some connections for another job."

Brucker said the dismissal "came as a big surprise."

Mack said the firing of two of his right hand men was done by the board and not by him.

Here's The Split On World Series Take

Cincinnati, Oct. 14 (P)—The New York Yankees' feat of winning the world series was worth $5,665.54 to the team's full-time members.

From the world series "gate" of $1,129,627.88 the Yankees cut their $206,159.45 into a total of 36 full shares.

The Dodgers cut up $137,439.64 into a total of 36½ shares. That meant a full share of $4,272.73.

Division of the world series money also extended down through the fourth place finishers on this basis:

Second place: Cleveland Indians—$24,542.79 into 39 shares of $629.30 each; Philadelphia Phils—$24,542.79 but the Phils have not yet advised of the number of players sharing in the split.

Fourth place: Detroit Tigers—$12,271.49 into 32 shares of $383.46; Boston Braves—$12,271.39 into 37 shares of $331.66 each.

The commissioner's office here received $169,444.18 of the series

In their first gridiron meeting in the last 36 years, Missouri comes to Champaign to play Illinois.

The Conference's feature attraction appears to be the clash between undefeated Minnesota and unbeaten Ohio State at Columbus, where 80,000 fans will watch the first game between the rivals since 1946. All seats were sold for this attraction before the season opened.

Ohio State will be the first single-wing team the Gophers have met this season. Whether Minnesota can handle the single-wing as well as it did the T-formation offenses of Washington, Nebraska and Northwestern will be answered tomorrow at Columbus.

The Buckeyes were hard pressed to down Missouri 35 to 34, and they were held to a 13-13 tie at Southern California, but their smashing 45 to 7 triumph over Indiana has convinced some Buckeye followers the first Western conference football championship since 1944 is within the grasp of the Ohioans.

The Buckeyes' passing attack suffered a blow yesterday with word that towering Dick Schnitker, veteran end, will not be in the lineup against the Gophers because of a leg injury. Also on the sidelines will be Vic Janowicz, key safety man, who is out with an ankle injury.

Minnesota was slated to work out today on the University of Dayton gridiron and remain in Dayton overnight before proceeding to Columbus. Coach Bernie Bierman was cheered by the news that Billy Bye, regular left halfback and the spark pug in Minnesota's offense, will be ready for action against the Buckeyes.

Irish Take On Tulane

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 14 (P)—The game of gridiron's 'possum as played by Notre Dame and Tulane thus far this season, will end abruptly at 2 p. m. (CST) here tomorrow.

In three games to date, each of the unbeaten juggernauts has been firm but coy on the attack, keeping a tremendously wary eye on their dynamite-filled meeting at Notre Dame stadium.

Tulane, pride of the South, hurled only 36 passes in subduing Alabama, Georgia Tech and South-eastern Louisiana. The Nationally top-ranked Irish have tried the airlines only 32 times in brushing aside Indiana, Washington and Purdue.

Obviously, neither team has been close to fully extended. That will come tomorrow afternoon when an overflow crowd of 57,000 will see two powerhouses fling off their wraps and measure off one another for the kill.

It could be one of the season's most electrifying games. Although the waging lads see Notre Dame winning by two touchdowns, or 13½ points.

GRAND RAPIDS HOCKEY

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 14 (P)—Grand Rapids scored in the waning minutes of play to end up in a 4-4 tie with Toledo in the opener of the Eastern Hockey league season here last night. A crowd of 3,800 viewed the game which was enlivened by several fist fights.

The National league office, the American league office and the Yankee and Dodge clubs themselves each received $117,231.97.

Gladstone, Oct. 14—Injuries to ball carriers still plague the Gladstone Braves as they prepare for their clash with Ishpeming tomorrow at Marble Athletic Field. The game is an important one in Great Lakes conference play. If Munising should upset Newberry, the winner of this game would be the Great Lakes champion.

Larry LaPlant, left halfback and one of the mainstays in the Gladstone backfield is bothered with a charleyhorse and Pierre Lavelle, sub fullback, has a side injury.

The Ishpeming game is one of three remaining on the local schedule. The following week, Stephenson comes here and the windup is the traditional battle with Escanaba at the county seat.

There will be a preliminary with the Manistique B's coming here to clash with Eldon Keil's reserve squad, starting at 12:30. Richard Lamberg has a broken finger and probably is out for the weekend.

Coach Don Pottenhauer is sticking to the lineup which has started most of the games this fall.

Until last Saturday when the Braves ran into a sharp Newberry eleven, the team was undefeated and untied.

Gladstone and Ishpeming are tied for second in conference play with 3-1-0 records.

Newberry is leading with 4-0-1.

It was tied, 13-13, by Marquette. If Newberry downs Munising tomorrow, the Gladstone-Ishpeming winner will cop second place.

Horace Smith To Get Chance

East Lansing, Oct. 14 (P)—Two Spartan backs named Smith will get a chance to add to the glory of the name when Michigan State meets William and Mary here Saturday.

The pair are Horace Smith, Negro track star from Jackson, and George Smith, extra point specialist from Wayne. Both will have a heavier than usual burden to carry because of lineup changes.

Horace looks like this week's choice to start at left half. He made the winning touchdown as a pass catcher last week and was awarded the game ball for his all-around brilliant play.

In practice this week, Horace has been running for the first team. Sonny Grandelius of Muskegon Heights probably will spell him.

In another change, caused by the injury to sophomore quarterback Bob Ciolek, George Smith has been shifted to an offensive post—a role in which he has comparatively little experience.

George looks like the number one choice to work behind Gene Glick, the Saginaw passing specialist.

Coach Biggie Munn ended what has been the easiest week on the practice field since the season opened with a long workout in the passing department yesterday. The emphasis this week has all been on fundamentals with hardly any scrimmage.

William-Mary Minus Its Tailback Star

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 14 (P)—William and Mary may have to get along without its sophomore tailback star, Dickie Lewis, against Michigan State tomorrow.

Lewis had a bad ankle. He twisted it when he fell in trying to cover a pass receiver in practice.

"Lewis may make the trip," said Coach R. N. (Rube) McCray, "but he can't be counted on for action."

Big League Players Visit Bark River

Bark River, Mich.—A lot of Bark River folks got a good look at a number of big league ball players right in their home town Thursday. Nearly everyone in town came out to meet and shake hands with the players.

With Dizzy Trout, pitcher for the Detroit Tigers, were Mike Tresh, Cleveland catcher, Peter Studer, Philadelphia second baseman, Al Bigelow, former Detroit pitcher, and Douglas Surrall, a representative of the beer firm which sponsors the game broadcasts for the Tigers.

Members of the Bark River ball club were not successful in arranging a game with the Tigers, who play at Manistee Saturday and St. Ignace the following Wednesday.

Following their luncheon in Bark River, Tom Swift Sr. received an invitation to attend a banquet with them at the Soo and young Tom Swift Jr., emerged as the hero of young baseball in Bark River, with an autographed baseball.

BLANK BLACK HAWKS

By the Associated Press

Bill Durnan, Montreal's ambidextrous goaltender, has picked up where he left off last hockey season. He's still posting shutouts. Durnan, who last season recorded ten such whitewashes, blanked the Chicago Black Hawks 4-0 last night to give his Canadian mates a running start in the National league's strenuous 70-game grind.

ESCANABA DAILY PRESS

S P O R T S

"It Seems To Me"

BY JIM WARD

There is no fog, no condensation, no humidity to speak of. Atmospheric conditions are near ideal. The sun is shining and Swami is smiling.

Here are his predictions on tomorrow's games:
Marquette 33, Watertown 13—Marquette's steamrolling Marines will not be pressed tomorrow. Where is Watertown, anyway? We always thought it was in South Dakota.

Iron River 46, Houghton 0—We shudder to think of the hapless Gremlins in a game like this. Iron River probably will be able to score almost at will.

Norway 39, Niagara 0—Along about this time, Niagara bigwig and schedule makers must be thinking that better they should have left the Menominee Range conference alone. It's been a rough season. We can see Allan Ronberg yawning while Ernest Pardon and Norman Polomis sharpen up their cleats.

Newberry 27, Munising 13—That's a nice idea having Newberry upset Munising and Gladstone and Ishpeming battle for the Great Lakes conference title tomorrow afternoon, but it won't work. A Munising win over Newberry at Newberry would be the upset of the season.

Wakefield 13, Ontonagon 6—Ontonagon let us down last week by bowing to Hancock, 13-12, but it will give Wakefield a battle before bowing by a one-touchdown margin.

Hurley 20, Bessemer 6—Just a hint of a frown crosses Swami's forehead when he contemplates what Hurley can and can't do. Hurley's had an up-and-down season. Who hasn't in the Michigan-Wisconsin high school conference? But Bessemer's in the cellar and it will still be there after the Hurley game.

Lake Linden 6, Baraga 0—That's as far as we'll go. This will be a battle of defense because no team has shown much offense. We like Lake Linden by a one-touchdown margin, and it'll be six instead of seven unless the Lakers cross us up like Dutch Cummings did in that Escanaba-Kingsford game. What a feather that would have been in Swami's turban, two Esky wins right on the nose!

L'Anse 20, Hancock 13—That's what their respective records point to Hancock will be fired up after tasting victory over Ontonagon but L'Anse was a two-touchdown winner over Ontonagon not long ago and it should be able to take Hancock by at least one touchdown.

Gladstone 13, Ishpeming 13—That hint of a frown on Swami's furrowed brow has turned into a positive scowl. How would YOU call this one? We tried glass wax on the crystal ball but this one calls for games with magnifying powers. We get such a tiny image of a Gladstone win in this one that we're going to call it a tie. The Braves had a lot of wind knocked out of their sails by Newberry and it's doubtful whether they've recovered from that surprise. And it was a surprise!

St. Joseph's 13, Crystal Falls 7—We'll go along with Coach Tom St. Germain's rejuvenation program on this one. The crystal ball says Crystal Fall will bow by 13-7. The Falls have demonstrated scoring power, however, and the Trojans will have to hit and hit hard all the way if they're going to walk off Memorial field with a 13-7 triumph tomorrow night.

Escanaba 20, Iron Mountain 13—Look for more scoring than you've seen in any Eskymo game to date. This game may well provide the answer to Escanaba's scoring ability. They've improved offensively, these Eskymos, but defensively they'll have to charge and tackle extra hard and play headsup ball to make up for the scrimmage injury to Jim Chapekis, veteran senior guard, Iron Mountain has three very capable backs in Olivanti, Crispigna and Taglienti.

Title Fight Is On Tonight

San Francisco, Oct. 14, (P)—Boxing could crown a new heavyweight champion tonight, but probably will not. The odds today were 1 to 5 that Ezzard Charles would successfully defend his N. B. A. title against the challenge of Pat Valentino in their 15-round fight at the San Francisco Cow Palace.

However, the 29-year-old Valentino may be a fairly strong challenger. He lost close decisions to Jimmy Bivins and fought two draws with Joe Maxim, both of whom extended the titleholder plenty, although defeated.

Aside from the remote possibility he could become the upset victim of Valentino's punishing body attack, Charles figures to win rather handsly. He is the superior boxer, much faster than his rival, and has proved he can take a knockdown punch and come back to win.

Charles is expected to weigh about 180 and his rival about 185.

The match will be worth $40,000 to Charles. The guarantee is the biggest for him since he joined the professional ranks in 1940.

For Valentino it is the chance of a lifetime.

Eskymos Seek 5th Victory At Iron Mountain Tomorrow

The Escanaba high school varsity and reserve football squads, 54-piece band and marching unit and student body are going to turn out enmasse, as the Frenchman says, for the renewal of one of the most colorful rivalries in the Upper Peninsula—the Escanaba-Iron Mountain football clash in Iron Mountain tomorrow afternoon.

Twenty-two reserves will make the jaunt to battle the Iron Mountain Bees at 1:15 Escanaba time. A full squad of 34 varsity Eskymos will go to participate in the main game at 3 Escanaba time. Likewise, Escanaba high school's band, which never fails to make a hit wherever it appears, will lend moral support for the Eskymo cause.

And it's a foregone conclusion a good portion of the student body will manage to make the trip to Iron Mountain to see this "piece de resistance."

With the weatherman apparently in a mood to smile on the occasion, it promises to be a gala one, indeed.

Chapekis Injured
Only cloud on the horizon is an injury suffered by the veteran senior guard, Jim Chapekis, one of the outstanding linemen of the U. P., in scrimmage this week.

He bruised his hip on the last play of scrimmage Wednesday afternoon and it was still bothering him today. Chapekis will suit up, of course, and probably will play, but he may not be up to his usual good form. He's the key man in Escanaba's defensive line play.

Should Chapekis not be ready for much duty, Tom Way will substitute for him on offense and his slot will be filled by George Rouman on defense.

Others in the squad of 34 who may see some action are Tom Schwalbach, Dick Desmond, Jim Prokos, ends; Bob Richards, Bob Frazier and Jack Cloutier, tackles; Dick and Fred Johnson, centers, and Warren Johnston and Bill Hamm, backs.

Iron Mountain's attack is built around three very capable backs, Bill Olivanti, all-U. P. performer of last season, Phil Crispigna and "Ace" Taglienti. Duane Lammi, quarterback, was injured in the Menominee game and is not expected to see action.

Olivanti gained 75 yards against Menominee. Crispigna picked up 59 and Taglienti accounted for 35 against the Maroons. They will be marked men tomorrow.

Esky Spirit High

Iron Mountain is expected to be every bit as tough as Kingsford, if not more so. The Mountaineers are geared to bounce back from that loss to Menominee last Saturday night and try to take it out on the Eskymos, the team that snapped Menominee's 14-game U. P. winning streak and ruined its chances to repeat as mythical champion of 1949.

Eskymo spirit is high. There is no evidence of a letdown.

Eskymos finishing in the first 10 in this cross country event.

Michigan, Minnesota Favored; Scribe Likes Navy Over Wisconsin

New York, Oct. 14 (P)—Notre Dame has been a life saver for football forecasters throughout its current unbeaten streak of 31 games and there is no indication the habits—either those of the Irish or that of the forecasters—need changing.

Tulane, smarting from a 59 to 6 drubbing two years ago, may be Notre Dame's sternest test of the season, but by nightfall Saturday the Irish will have gone 32 games without a setback.

(Last week's average: 64 correct, 15 wrong for .810; season's totals: 167 correct, 39 wrong for .810.)

Minnesota over Ohio State: Minnesota's only early-season fault was a lack of speed. The Gophers found it last Saturday in little Dick Gregory. The Buckeyes will miss Vic Janowicz.

California over Southern California: There's little, if anything, to choose here and so the home team is the choice.

Cornell over Yale: The Ivy league champs are the pick of Columbia Coach Lou Little. That's good enough for this selector.

Army over Harvard: The Army winning streak will go marching on after a rugged afternoon. It likely will be closer than you think.

Michigan over Northwestern: The Rose Bowl champs have lost two in a row. With Michigan's Chuck Ortmann recovered they'll take a third straight licking.

Others:

Navy over Wisconsin, Southern Methodist over Rice; Brown over Princeton, Georgia over Louisiana State, Purdue over Miami, Fla., Villanova over Tulis.

Pennsylvania over Columbia, Penn State over Nebraska, Dartmouth over Colgate, Rutgers over Syracuse, Holy Cross over Duquesne, Pittsburgh over Miami, Ohio.

Tennessee over Alabama, Vanderbilt over Florida, Georgia Tech over Auburn, Kentucky over the Citadel, Duke over North Carolina State, Virginia over Washington & Lee.

Michigan State over William & Mary, Iowa over Indiana, Marquette over Detroit, Western Michigan over Washington University. (St. Louis).

Stanford over Washington, Texas over Arkansas, UCLA over Santa Clara, Texas Christian over Texas A & M, Oregon over Colorado.

Stephenson Eleven At Peshtigo Tonight

Stephenson, October 14—The Stephenson Eagles will play the Peshtigo eleven on the latter's field tonight.

Fund Raising Drive Opens

Community Chest Has Goal Of $17,000

The Delta County Community Chest will open its annual solicitation campaign Saturday, continuing to November 1. The goal for this year is $17,000, which is $1,000 less than the 1948-49 quota.

Six agencies are participating in the Community Chest again this year — Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Salvation Army, Campfire Girls, Cod Liver Oil Fund and Michigan Children's Aid.

Baxter Mitchell of Escanaba has been appointed county chairman of the drive. Wellington Hinz is the Escanaba chairman. Mrs. Gordon Kelley is the Gladstone chairman and Hagle Quarnstrom the township chairman. Township supervisors will be in charge of the drive in each of the townships.

There will be no house to house canvass but all wage earners will be solicited in their place of employment.

Jury Convicts 11 Leading U. S. Reds; 5 Lawyers Jailed

New York, Oct. 14 (AP)—A federal jury convicted 11 top-ranking American communist leaders today of conspiring to teach overthrow of the U. S. government by force.

The 11 defendants, all members of the Communist National Board, were remanded to jail to await sentencing next Friday at 10:30 a. m. They face sentences up to 10 years in prison and $10,000 fine each.

Eight of the defendants had been free on $5,000 bail. Immediately afterward, Federal Judge Harold R. Medina found five of their lawyers guilty of criminal contempt during the nine-month trial and sent them to jail for terms varying from 30 days to six months.

Eugene Dennis, a defendant who acted as his own lawyer, also drew a six-month contempt sentence. Thus ended, after seven hours of jury deliberation that began yesterday afternoon, a strife-ridden trial unprecedented in American history.

It was hinted during the trial that conviction of the leaders, who are certain to appeal to the U. S. supreme court, might drive the Communist party underground in this country.

Farmer Saved, Pushes His Feet Into Fire

Oustee, Okla., Oct. 14 (AP)—A farmer was alive today because, his doctor said, he had the courage to push his bleeding and amputated legs into a fire.

Thirty-three-year-old C. B. Hughes lost both legs yesterday when he tried to free his arm pinned in a hay baler.

He attracted his wife's attention two hours later by setting fire to a bale of hay.

Doctors described his condition last night as "fair." They said his arm will be amputated later. Hughes' wife said he pushed his legs—severed below the knees—into the flame to stop their bleeding and relieve the pain.

BURNS FATAL—Owosso (AP)—Funeral services were scheduled Saturday for Mrs. Myrtis Brown, 75, who died Thursday of burns received when her clothing caught fire from an electric heater Wednesday.

Briefly Told

City Employees Elect—John De Chantal was re-elected president of Local 78, American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, at their last regular meeting.

Other officers elected were: John Stoneman, vice-president; Harold Ball, financial secretary; Harvey Wellman, treasurer; Leo Londo, recording-secretary; and Ernest Newhouse, sergeant-at-arms.

Visits Escanaba — Roob Allie, Detroit, publicity director of the Michigan Railroads association, visited Escanaba today while on a tour of the Upper Peninsula.

Tax Settlement—From the office of the Delta county treasurer a settlement for delinquent taxes collected during the month of September is being made, with checks today mailed to the townships and cities. The total disbursement is $1,415.17, of which $242.33 goes to the city of Escanaba, $227.38 to the city of Gladstone, and the remainder to the townships.

Public Health And School Nurses To Meet Here Saturday

Public health and school nurses of the Upper Peninsula will meet tomorrow in the Delta health department offices, Webster Annex, to discuss the subject of the place of the public health nurse in the schools.

About 36 nurses are expected to attend the meeting which will start at 10 o'clock.

Talks will be heard by Howard Lamb, psychologist with the Child Guidance Center, Marquette; and Miss Margaret Shetland, assistant director in the division of public health nursing, state health department.

Miss Phoebe Anderson, supervisor of nurses, Delta-Menominee health district, is in charge of arrangements for the meeting.

Young Infant Dies At Powers

Francis Young, nine months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Young of Flat Rock died this morning at Pinecrest sanatorium, Powers, following a two weeks' illness.

The baby was born in Escanaba January 10, 1949. Surviving are the parents, one brother, Lawrence, and two sisters, Lorraine and Mary Ann, and the grandparents, Mrs. Martin Delvaux, Flat Rock, and Mrs. Adelaide Young, Cornell.

The body will be in state at the Bovee funeral home at 7 this evening and services will be held at 10:30 Saturday morning at Holy Family church, Rev. Roland Dion officiating. Burial will be in Flat Rock cemetery.

Mother Of 9 Becomes Grandmother At 30

St. Petersburg, Fla., Oct. 14 (AP)—A bride at 11, a mother of nine at 25 and a grandmother at 30.

That's the story of Mrs. Olive Litz Malz, now at 70 she has this advice for married couples:

"Don't run home to mama every-time something goes wrong, shoulder your own burdens, and forgive and forget."

Mrs. Malz and her first husband met at a party and married three days later. He was 31—her senior by 20 years. The marriage lasted 51 years—until his death.

Four years ago, she married again.

Seek Missing Germfask Man

Farmer, 42, Last Seen Wednesday

(BULLETIN)

Gus Ketola, Germfask farmer, was found dead in a field near his Germfask farmhouse shortly before noon today. A shotgun was near his body. He had been shot in the head. Officers stated he apparently had committed suicide. Ketola was confined as an inmate in the state hospital at Newberry last winter.

Manistique — More than 100 volunteers today joined state police and sheriff's officers in an intensive search for a farmer residing near Germfask, who has been missing from his home since Wednesday morning.

Gus Ketola, 42, farmer residing about two miles southeast of Germfask, left his home at 10 a. m. Wednesday carrying a gun and tools for repairing a fence. He told his family that he planned to mend fences on his farm and do a little hunting.

State police from the Newberry post were first notified of Ketola's absence, and the office of the Schoolcraft county sheriff was first called upon for assistance late yesterday.

Today about 100 persons, including neighbors and friends of Ketola, together with the posse of officers, were scouring the fields and woods adjacent to the Ketola farm.

It was reported to officers that Ketola had been in good health and that his family was alarmed for his safety only when he failed to return last night.

Carl Bement To Quit Nov. 11

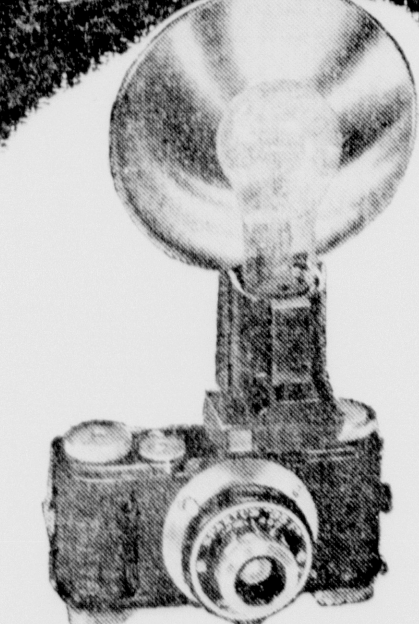

Steam Plant Manager Takes New Job

Carl Bement, superintendent of the city steam plant here for three years, has resigned his position, effective Nov. 11, and has accepted a position as testing and efficiency engineer at the University of Illinois power plant in Champaign, Ill. He will assume his new position on Nov. 14.

Bement has been superintendent of the steam plant here since Jan. 3, 1947. The plant has been completely remodeled and expanded during that time. The installation of a small turbo generator to provide power at the station is all that remains to complete the rebuilding of the steam plant.

Stan Abrahamson, superintendent of the city gas plant, will serve as outside contact man for the steam plant for the time being. City Manager A. V. Aronson said this morning, and Ken Toushak

Six Polio Deaths Of 73 U. P. Cases So Far This Year

There have been 73 reported polio cases in the Upper Peninsula so far this year, of which six terminated fatally, the most recent from the city of Escanaba, according to figures released from St. Luke's hospital, Marquette.

Two cases in Delta county, two in Chippewa, and one each in Alger, Dickinson, Menominee and Schoolcraft counties bring the reported polios to the new figure of 79.

There have been two deaths of polio patients from Chippewa, and one each from Alger, Menominee, Mackinac and Delta counties. The Delta county case was that of Robert Christensen, 13, of Escanaba.

Other U. P. fatalities this year were Charles R. Langden, 23, Sherwood, O., who was vacationing in Sault Ste. Marie when stricken; Gary Bessett, 5 Sault Ste. Marie; Dale C. Perault, 3, Munising; Trooper Douglas O. Church, 23, who was stationed at St. Ignace, and John W. Johnson, five-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson, Ingalls (Menominee county), who died Oct. 3.

Urges $550,000 For Advertising

U. P. Bureau Adopts Several Resolutions

The state legislature was urged to make biennial appropriations, totaling $550,000 for advertising Michigan's recreational attractions, in a resolution adopted at last evening's closing session of the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at Iron Mountain.

Other resolutions were devoted to the encouragement and development of the Upper Peninsula's industries, agriculture, forests and other natural resources. The resolutions urged:

Continuance of the Michigan State College extension program to aid the tourist and resort industry.

Recognition of forest highway 13 in the Hiawatha national forest in the state highway map and placing of suitable signs at the US-2 entrance at Nahma and the M-28 entrance at Wetmore.

Continuance of the Northern Great Lakes Area Tourist Council program.

Support of the 1950 international trade show in Detroit.

Support of the program of the Michigan Economic Development commission program.

Expansion of the tree plantations and nurseries by federal and state governments.

Early completion of causeway project at St. Ignace to relieve ferry congestion at Straits of Mackinac.

Expansion of state and federal research to develop wood industries.

Support of Senator Thyne's bill for streamlining U. S. Forest Service organization.

Increased federal funds for wildlife management in national forests.

Granting by CAB of air mail franchise to Nationwide Airlines enroute from Detroit to Lansing, Grand Rapids, Green Bay, Menominee, Escanaba, Marquette and Houghton.

Attending the meeting from Delta county were: Wm. L. Marble, A. C. Peterson, Joseph Van Arnum, Gladstone; Harold P. Lindsay, Hugh Grow, Wm. J. Duchaine, Wallace Smith and Gust Asp.
